

v

EQUIVALENCE OF GRAVITY & CURVED GEOMETRY

- Absent a force, particles move in straight lines
- A force can curve the path
- In curved surfaces, even straight lines appear to curve
- Spatial curvature can account for gravitational "forces"

1915: GENERAL RELATIVITY

- The fabric of spacetime becomes curved at concentrations of matter and energy
- The curved spacetime causes particle trajectories to bend and creating gravitational "forces"

